Thoughts for the Week

By Richard Marotta, Ph.D., Headmaster

Next Thursday at 7:00pm in the Auditorium, the Garden School Board of Trustees will be holding our annual General Assembly. The General Assembly is an important night each year for the Garden School Community, since it offers a chance to learn about the state of our school. I know that the Board hopes that as many parents as possible can join us to share in this night of information, planning for the future and good news about the current state of our school.

Communication within independent schools has always been and remains an important part of the culture. Sharing information and plans always enhances the level of participation for all members of a school community. Our schools, which are under the not-for-profit governance model, all have Boards of Trustees whose primary responsibilities include ensuring the fiscal stability and success of the school, of evaluating and supporting the Headmaster, and of engaging in long range strategic planning to guide the future of the school.

All of these elements of the culture of our school will be presented, discussed and explained. You will hear from each of the Board committees who will share their current work, their progress and their goals moving forward. And there will be time for questions.

Please come to the General Assembly on Thursday, January 21, at 7:00pm in the Auditorium and join us for an evening of ideas, facts and, of course, refreshments.
